

Solution Starters

Does a model already exist or will you have to create it from scratch?

Is there any research that supports a certain solution over another?

Does the solution have a clear start and end point? Is it repetitive? Is it ongoing?

Is there more than one step or part to the solution?

Do you serve clients, do you have participants, or are their members?

Is this something you will coordinate internally or will you seek out partners?

Who might be interested in supporting a solution like this?

Do you already have direct access to the target audience?

How will you know if the solution truly meets the need?